

Mushroom People

- Grizzly Bear -

press release:

Mushroom People are back with their new release, Grizzly Bear. Kicking off with a Johnny Marr like guitar riff, Grizzly bear gets carried by atmospheric drum patterns, and a mumbly, laid back vocal performance. While maintaining its guitar centred foundation, the song manages to make the shift towards a future bass driven sound reminiscent of Flume and Whethan.

Lyricaly, it's hard to tell if we are talking about unrequited love or an actual encounter with a grizzly bear. One thing is for sure: the track will always keep your imagination wild.

By only making small changes to their previous single artwork (Vertigo), Mushroom People could give you the impression, that these tracks could lead up to something like an EP or even an album.
